BE MERRY AND WISE.

Oh! could we in old age renew
The glance of soul, the look endearing,
With what delight we would pursue
Life's rugged path, while love was cheering!

But age will come, with brow austere,
And scarce allow a smile to pleasure;
Each laugh is smothered by a care, [sure.
And prudence every word must mea-

Search, dotard, and this truth is found,
To blend with sweet, life's bitter potion:
While nature's blessings thus abound,
That gratitude's the soul's devotion.

Then why should men repine and mourn—
Enjoy the bliss that heav'n hath sent ye
For all its gifts, a poor return,
To prove that nothing will content ye.

Go on and weep, nor can I think
That man was only born to sorrow—
To-day at coming evil shrink,
And puzzle why we shrunk to-morrow.

Life's like the hand that measures time,
While gliding o'er the transient minute;
'Tis here—'tis gone, and past its prime,
And finding nothing stable in it.

Days scarce remembered we regret,
And that from friendship we should se-
ver;
But still a hope is left us yet,
Of union that will last forever.

First, in the morn of life be wise,
Then will the eve of age be merry;
'Tis wisdom teaches to despise
Those trifles which the grave must bury.

From the Richmond Compiler.

WORTHY OF IMITATION.

It is with pride, as men, friends of honor, as citizens of Richmond, that we bring to the reader's recollection a transaction which has lately occurred in this city. A few months ago the conduct of a Scotch tailor, who migrated to Richmond, rung through the English and American papers—he was held up as a pattern of honesty, and justly did he merit the compliments which were paid him. He had left Great Britain in debt, after pledging himself to repay his creditors, as soon as it was in his power. He adhered to that promise—he did not see that space or time could part him from his honor—as soon as he had gathered a small sum of money from the wages of his labor in this city he remitted it to his creditors. The act was applauded in the British prints, and the American prints repeated the strain.

A memorable case of honorable dealings may be drawn from the late conduct of two of our own citizens.—We cite no names, but the persons here are sufficiently known—We name the act out of respect to them—we wish to pay them the poor tribute of our respect—but they have their reward, not in the fugitive columns of a newspaper, but in their own breasts.

Some weeks past, an advertisement appeared in the public prints, that, "The Assignees of —— and —— having been furnished with funds, are ready to pay the remaining 3-5ths of the balance of the debts which remained unpaid after the final dividend of the said estate. They are also furnished with funds for the payment of the balance of the debts proved against —— (one of the partners) individually. Apply at the counting house of ——."

Now, what are the facts? Several years ago, two gentlemen engaged in business in this city, were unfortunate enough to fail. On surrendering their effects they obtained a discharge from their creditors. Their reputation survived their misfortunes, and they again embarked in the same business on their own accounts, each upon his own footing—Fortune smiled upon their industry and enterprise—and made them comparatively rich.

It was then the solidity of their principles were manifested. Though discharged in fact and in law from the claims of their creditors, they did not conceive themselves discharged in a court of conscience. With an honorable spirit which reflects on them the highest credit, they determined to satisfy those debts from which they had been released. They set apart funds for that purpose, to the amount of nearly 20,000 dollars. Comment on such conduct is superfluous. On such as have no heart to feel the dignity of the transaction, words would be only thrown away.

POPERY.

"To one sole altar points this hand—
The altar of my native land:
Where those in honour'd slumber lie,
Whose deaths have taught me how to die—
And shall I not, with all my powers,
Watch round thy venerable towers?
And can I bid the pilgrim flee
To holier mother than to thee?
And can I bid him turn his feet
From fields with flowers of mercy sweet,
To gloomy wastes, and chilly cells,
Where frowning superstition dwells?
Where fast and penance waste the hours
Which man demands—to Moloch's throne,
To gloomy rites—to men of stone,
To the cold cell, and midnight grove,
Where 'tis forgot that God is love?"
De Rance, Canto IV.

MR. EDITOR,

When Eudamidas heard Xenocrates disputing about wisdom, he asked very soberly—If the old man be yet disputing about wisdom, what time will he have to make use of it? The ratio of progress with which the controversy between M B. and myself has been conducted, may suggest a similar enquiry; and perhaps it would be well for us both to improve the moral, by the application of a higher principle to the following allusion of the poet:

Tityre, dum redeo, brevis est via, pasce capellas.

I did not know 'till the last letter of our opponent gave the information, that he had given "a satisfactory solution" of the canon of the Lateran council which declares the deposing power of the Pope. Notwithstanding this solution, I am informed by the highest authority, that the decrees of councils are, as imperious and irrevocable as the laws of the Medes and Persians; and that, whether they relate to matters of faith or of practice, they are to be taken as the infallible decisions of the church in those particulars. If it be true, as is stated, that "a pontifical bull must be received by the whole church, before it can have any decisive weight," pray, how many dissentients does it take to make it not the whole church? Must there be a thousand, or a hundred, or ten; or will it dissolve the integer, if M B. alone enters his caveat? The fact is, whoever undertakes to read the decrees of councils, the bulls of Popes, and the writings of their schoolmen, or to make enquiries of modern priests, will find this self-same infallible church to be the most undefinable, contradictory and discordant thing in the world. It is like the bed of Procrustes, which may be stretched and shortened to suit any and every purpose. Scarcely two of them agree. We have seen M. B. in opposition to Popes, cardinals, and councils; We shall see them in opposition to each other; Councils decreeing against councils; Popes excommunicating Popes, and charging each other with the lowest vices, two & three at a time roaming about Europe, and realizing the fabled story of a monster with three heads. Well may such a church maintain the necessity of an infallible guide to conduct the wanderer through its labyrinths. But where shall we find it? Bellarmine, Baronius, &c. tell us it is in the Pope; the Gallican church, and the councils of Pisa, Constance and Basle, which made and unmade Popes, say it is in the councils; M. B. informs us that it is "in chief pastors, whether convened in council or scattered abroad;" and a fourth party, that it is in the church militant. Now, in good earnest, whether is it better to have no guide or one that you cannot find? Or, whether is it better to follow the scriptures and common sense, or to be carried about by an ignis fatuus which has been generated in the bogs and miasmata of the middle ages?

In default of this infallible guide to show us what is the doctrine of the church on the deposing power; the bulls of Popes going for nothing, because they were not received by the whole church, viz. by M. B.; the canon of the Lateran council being set aside also by his "satisfactory solution;" the opinion of Bellarmine and a hundred others being put down by the same authority; we are left to look for the truth in facts. And what are the facts? Why, that the Popes for three hundred years before the reformation gave the most logical commentary upon the doctrine, imaginable, by deposing and murdering kings, and by "requiring the belief of these prerogatives under the penalty of the displeasure of Almighty God and (because that was not enough) of his holy apostles, Peter and Paul." Whether, therefore, it was the doctrine of the church or no, it is not material. It had all the operation which an acknowledged jus divinum could have given it; and as M. B. himself admits it to have been an evil, it is perfectly fair to consider the cure of it, one of the good effects of the reformation, and as furnishing proper motives for attempting, and just cause of gratitude for having achieved, that event.

The zeal which M. B. displays on behalf of the Jesuits is not matter of wonder. They are esteemed by Papists as choice spirits. With the names he has quoted in their favor, he has given no reference by which we can discover what sort of testimony they offer. Some of them, I know, reprobated their morals, though they commended their literary character. It is a little amusing to see a Pope brought forward as evidence in this case. Ganganelli, signing with humid eye the bull for their extinction, was only the precursor of the unfortunate Lewis XVI. who, in less than twenty years after, was forced to send away his army, his nobility, his life guards. The reason in both cases is obvious enough. That the Secreta Monita are a forgery, is an assertion, unsupported as far as I can find, by any thing but the sympathies of interested witnesses. It is more than counteracted by the famous litigation before the Parliament of Paris, in which the rules of their order were produced, and were found to contain principles subversive of morals and government. These are facts recorded in the public archives of that body.

If Pascal was not a Roman Catholic because the Jansenists were excommunicated by the bull Unigenitus, then neither are any Roman Catholics in France to be so considered; for they are to this day excommunicated by the bulla in Cœna Domini which has been often issued by bell, book and candle light. This bull excommunicates every one who reads a book printed by a heretic. Is M. B. himself exempt from this anathema?

The intolerant doctrine of the Roman church is written too plainly in her articles, catechisms and casuists, and, alas! in the blood and tears of thousands, to admit of a doubt with those who have not sworn to the XI article of the council of Trent. "It must be acknowledged, (says Villers, page 109) that the spirit of papism is exclusive and intolerant." The famous argument by which they have long attempted to frighten women and children, is well known; viz. "You Protestants admit that we may be saved, but we do not admit the same of you; therefore, by joining us you are on the safest side." Hence their tender solicitude to pluck us from destruction, though it be by pinching and burning us into orthodoxy. Hence the zeal with which they "compass sea and land to make a proselyte;" and hence the unfair methods which are adopted in the college in this district, of alluring by caresses, or of perverting by fears and terrors, the Protestant children who are sent there for tuition. Parents may be well assured that these Jesuits will leave no means untried to bring our children into the bosom of that church, "out of which they believe there is no salvation." But if our warning voice can prevail, Protestants will deliver themselves from the guilt of committing their children to such a seminary, at a period when the tender mind is susceptible of every impression—when it may easily be overcome by imposing ceremonies, and moulded into every form of a direful superstition.

Will our opponent now redeem his pledge, and answer the interrogatories which we propounded in a former letter; or will he permit us still to believe, as we have been taught, that popery has tended to extinguish the lights of knowledge as well as of liberty; that the supremacy of the Pope, the infallibility of the church, transubstantiation, indulgencies, &c. have no foundation in the scriptures, in the consent of the early fathers, or in common sense; and that Luther, who delivered us from the yoke of this bondage, notwithstanding the calumnies that have been invented against him, and which were utterly unknown to his contemporaries, is worthy of our veneration and gratitude, as an illustrious servant of God, and as the benefactor of mankind?

QUÆRO.

The steam-boat Experiment, McCurdy, cleared at Alexandria the 18th Sept. for N. York—did not leave here till about Sunday the 28th, and on Monday following was seen off Maryland Point, proceeding down the Potomac.——This is known to be the fact.—The reason for again noticing her clearance, is, the New-York Gazette presumes it to be a mistake.

"The Spanish force have made their appearance once more on Amelia, to attack the place; but disappeared almost as soon—the guns of the Patriots were too heavy for them. I am afraid the province is gone for ever from the Spaniards.

"Commodore Aury arrived on the 17th instant with a ship and brig, (prizes) filled with sugar and coffee. Another ship has just arrived, said to be loaded with dry goods, wine, &c. Extract of a letter from a gentleman in St. Mary's, dated Sept. 20.

"The result of the action on the 13th was, that about 12 o'clock that night the Spanish gun-boats went back to the Narrows, with one man killed, and the troops returned to Harrison's with two killed—the whole force about 400; but some of the Patriots and some of the Spanish party tell me only about 40 were engaged, with two brass pieces, on M'Clure's Hill, firing on the town and on the San Josef—the commandant made the others remain behind the hill. Neither party came within musket shot—no person hurt on the patriotic side. I presume no further attempt will be made, and that the Patriots will remain in possession of Amelia. IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.

Mr. Everard Hall, formerly of North Carolina, but now residing on Little Island, in Princess Ann county, has discovered a process by which salt of a superior quality can be made from ordinary sea water, and afforded cheaper than it can be imported. Five hundred bushels can be made in one day at a trifling expense, and sold at the factory on the sea shore for 25 cents a bushel, which, upon the smallest calculation, (according to the inventor) will yield one hundred and fifty per cent. per annum upon the capital employed. At the last session of the supreme court in Northampton, (Mass.) Stephen Allen was convicted of burglary in the second degree, and sentenced to 7 days imprisonment, and confinement for life to hard labor. Allen, according to his own account, seems to have been a most atrocious offender. He says he murdered a Mr. Mourse, in the vicinity of Albany, and after taking his money, threw him into the river. That he aided in the murder of judge Hill and son, during the last war, on the confines of Canada; that he has once or twice robbed the mail, particularly once in South Carolina, of 300 dollars; that he has been sentenced by a court martial to be shot for desertion; and has been tried for the murder of Miss Hamilton, at Athens, but acquitted. CONNECTICUT.

The Connecticut Mirror of Monday the 22d inst. states, that the result of the freemen's meeting in that state, the last week, is fully in favor of the democratic party, they having elected a majority of more than forty members in the house of representatives of the state legislature, and carried their ticket for the nomination for the council by a majority of from 1,000 to 2,000 votes. We observe in some of the papers, the remark, that both houses of the legislature have been gained at this election. This is a mistake. One house, viz.: the council, was elected last spring, and consists of federalists alone. The choice of the nomination however, this fall, secures the council to that party in the spring; at which time in all probability, they will have the command of both houses.

This revolution, as might be expected, produces much exultation among the democrats in other parts of the country, as well as in Connecticut. It is, however, one thing to exult, and another to conduct the affairs of a community in a more beneficial manner, than those of that state have been conducted heretofore. A revolution, even from a bad government to a good one, is often a very serious affair for the people immediately interested in it. Much more difficult, one would imagine, it would be found, for any set of men to take a government under which more blessings have been enjoyed, for the time it has lasted, than under any other in the world, and, by a sudden revolution, subvert the old one, and substitute a new one, which should secure to the people greater advantages than they before enjoyed.

The state of Connecticut is nearly out of debt; it possesses a considerable fund in the stocks; its school fund amounts to a million and a half of dollars; the state taxes are very low; and compensations of every description are proverbially small. It can hardly be expected that a new government can be more strictly popular than the present. One branch of the legislature is chosen annually, by the whole body of the freemen, and the other twice a year, in the various towns—all the judicial officers, from the highest to the lowest, are chosen yearly by a concurring vote of the legislature. It remains to be seen whether the party who have undertaken to reform the affairs of that state, will make a government more truly democratic than the present. The time will certainly come when this subject will be examined by sensible and dispassionate men, through some other medium than party passion and vindictive feeling, and we think there can be no doubt of the result.

A great many persons, in different parts of the country, who are not intimately acquainted with the affairs of Connecticut, but who have been long accustomed to hear the state, its laws, government, and inhabitants, reproached and vilified, and who have recently heard a vast deal of noise on the subject of "toleration," from the party who have at last succeeded in obtaining the majority, appear to suppose that there must have been some foundation for those reproaches and calumnies—at least on the score of religious freedom. When the colony of Connecticut was first settled, there was but one denomination of christians in it, and that was CONGREGATIONALISTS. By them the government was formed, and under their care, its institutions, literary, civil, and religious, were established. However strict these institutions may have been, they were formed for themselves, and not for other denominations which then had no existence among them. One principle, established from the beginning, was, that every man should contribute to the support of public worship. In process of time, other denominations appeared. They found the abovementioned principle in force—it was not established for the purpose of operating upon them, but upon the people who formed it. The laws, however, were gradually ameliorated in their favor, and it was finally settled that "whenever any person should differ in sentiment from the worship and ministry in the ecclesiastical societies in the state, constituted by law within local bounds, (which means congregational societies, as all the located societies in the state were of that character) and shall choose to join himself to any other denomination of christians," he might lodge a certificate, declaring that choice, with the clerk of the society to which he had previously belonged, and then he was discharged from taxes in the congregational society. If there is any religious intolerance in Connecticut, it exists in this provision of law. At the session of the assembly in May last, the subject of the religious affairs of the state was referred to a joint committee of the two houses, consisting of an Episcopal chairman, and among others, of several members of the "toleration party." The grievances under which they labored must, of course, have been brought distinctly under their consideration. The matter resulted in a report recommending a change in the existing law, so far as to order the abovementioned certificates to be lodged hereafter with the town clerk instead of the society clerk; the only one of which can be, in many cases, to subject the persons lodging them to more inconvenience than they would experience by the former law, it frequently being a fact that the distance to the town clerk would be greater than to the society clerk.

We are induced to make this statement merely for the purpose of having the facts correctly understood, having, as we have remarked, heard it suggested by very respectable people, not well acquainted with the affairs of Connecticut, that they imagined there must be something illiberal, at least, if not intolerant in that state. If there is any other religious intolerance there, we have never seen it defined or specified.

The revolution now appears to be complete. The number of votes, it is true, as far as we have heard, which is from towns, are much smaller than that given in the last spring, the greatest number for one of the gentlemen who were voted upon both tickets being 16,094. From this circumstance we should conclude, from this circumstance, that the whole number given by both parties at the present time would be several thousands short of those given in the last. The men who have now the affairs concerns of that state in their hands have a responsible task to perform. If they can render the situation of the inhabitants more comfortable, more prosperous and happy, than they have heretofore been, they will disappoint many fears. Time will determine the question.

EXTRAORDINARY ACCIDENT.

A singular but melancholy accident happened on board the ship Hamoody, Nacqudah Cooty master, in the course of her voyage from Batavia to this port.—When off Cape Cutia about two months ago, on sounding the pumps, it was observed that the ship had made more water than usual, upon which a man went down into the well to ascertain the state of it; but immediately returning or giving an answer when called to, his brother went down after him: as he also did not return nor give any answer, a man descended with a lanthorn, and when observed when he reached the well the lanthorn dropped out of his hand, and the man himself fell down. The main batches were then opened, and a passage made to the place by-a-long part of the cargo of rice; and the men were found lying senseless near the pump, but with some appearance of life remaining. They were immediately removed, but we regret to say that they all died in the course of an hour or two afterwards. The cause of this unfortunate accident has been without doubt from the well of the pump having been filled with the foul gas destructive to human life, probably carbonic acid gas, which being considerably heavier than atmospheric air would remain at the bottom of the well. This gas is abundantly diffused throughout nature—it is found in mines, caves, cellars, and causes instant death to any animal that inhales it undiluted. The accident may have been occasioned by nitrogen gas, which is a component part of atmospheric air, but which when deprived of the other component part, oxygen, is highly destructive of life.—The decomposition of atmospheric air is very likely to occur in the hold of a ship.

Extraordinary Cure of Hypo

A wealthy Swiss farmer, affected with hypochondria, went to Langenau to consult the celebrated Michael Scuppach, better known by the appellation of the Mountain Doctor. "I have seven devils in my body," said he; "No fewer than that," replied the doctor, with the utmost gravity:—"if you count them you will find eight." After examining the patient concerning his case, he promised to cure him in seven days, during which time he ordered him every morning rid him of one devil at the rate of one louis d'or per day. "But," added he, "as the seventh will be much more obstinate than the others, I expect two louis d'ors for his share." The farmer agreed to these terms. Again was struck, and the doctor began singing upon all present the strictest secrecy, promised to give him six louis d'ors to the poor of the village. The farmer agreed to these terms; the bargain was struck, and the doctor imposing upon all present the necessity of secrecy, promised to give the nine louis d'ors to the poor of the parish. Next morning the imaginary demoniac was brought to him, and placed near a kind of machine which he had never seen before, by means of which he received an electric shock. The farmer roared out lustily—"There goes one!" said the doctor, with the utmost gravity. Next day the same operation was repeated; the farmer hollowed as before, and the doctor coolly remarked; "Another is off!" In this manner he proceeded to the seventh. When he was preparing to attack the last, Scuppach reminded his patient that he now had need of all his courage, for this was the captain of the gang, who would make a more obstinate resistance than any of the others. The shock was at this time so strong as to extend the demoniac on the floor. "Now they are all gone!" said the doctor, and ordered the farmer to be put to bed: on covering himself the latter declared he was completely cured: he paid the nine louis d'ors with abundance of thanks, and returned in the best spirits to his village. Credible witnesses attest this extraordinary cure, which proves the aruteness of the doctor, as well as Solomon's proverb, that with the fool we must some times talk like a fool.

Rose Hall for Rent.

TO be rented for the ensuing year, and will be offered to the highest bidder, on Friday the tenth day of October next, the farm and ferry commonly called LAIDLER's FERRY. The farm contains upwards of five hundred acres of the most fertile land in Charles County. The ferry among the first established on the Potomack river in Maryland, is too well known to require any thing to be said of it. The person who may rent the farm and ferry may be accommodated with three or four excellant plantation hands and expert ferrymen.

Land for Sale.

IF early application is made, I will dispose of 400 acres of the CEDAR GROVE tract of land. There is surplus timber and fire wood enough on the part I purpose selling to pay, with judicious management, more than half the purchase money, at the price I ask. The situation is healthy, and the land fertile. Contiguity to market is also among its advantages; it being within less than a mile of Mr. Jonathan Janney's mill, where the Alexandria price may be had for grain. Persons wishing to purchase will apply to the subscriber, residing at Cedar Grove, ten miles below Alexandria, and one below Janney's mill.

sept. 29 EDGAR M'CARTY.

Land for Sale

THE subscriber offers for sale a tract of 80 acres of land, on the Colchester road, five miles from Alexandria, adjoining the lands of Haywood Foote and Dennis Johnston. The greater part of this tract is fine meadow land, abundantly supplied with water. Also one other tract of 261 acres, on the Ravensworth road, about 6 miles from Alexandria, and one mile from the first-mentioned tract, adjoining land of Thos. Janney and Mr. M'Pherson—the greater part of this tract is in wood, the soil good and highly susceptible of improvement, from the use of plaster. If these lands are not sold before the first of January next, they will then be for rent.

Land for Sale.

THE Subscriber offers for sale, about 2000 acres of land in Fairfax county, not more than from seven to nine miles from Alexandria. The property is well watered, has a sufficiency of wood, and (judging from the condition of small and well cultivated farms that adjoin it,) it is highly susceptible of improvement.—It is at present divided into tenements, of from one to two hundred acres, each provided with a dwelling house, out houses, a garden and orchard; and might, of course, be laid off into four or five very compact farms The principal object of the subscriber, being the introduction of a good system of husbandry into his neighbourhood, he will sell on very moderate terms, give a long credit on the whole amount of the purchase money, and require no other interest, than what the present rent of the land pays, being about 8 per cent. on its estimated value.

A valuable Farm for Sale.

THE SUBSCRIBER will sell, on reasonable terms, a valuable and productive farm of 600 acres, or thereabouts—being part of the lands of the late Richard Brent, lying on Kettle Run in the county of Prince William, in the state of Virginia—20 miles from the Occoquan Mills—33 miles from Alexandria, and about the same distance from Georgetown and the City of Washington. This farm lies in the centre of an excellant neighborhood—is handsomely situated—abundantly watered, and has upon it an ample proportion of wood. The soil is naturally strong, and a considerable portion of it has for some years past, been cultivated according to the most approved rules of modern husbandry. Possession will be given on the first day of January next. The terms upon which this property will be sold, will be made known upon application to George L. Brent, of Stafford County, Va. or to the subscriber living in Alexandria.

A NEW DAILY AND THRICE A WEEK PAPER

At the Seat of Government.

THE people of the United States are respectfully informed that in October next, there will be issued at the city of Washington, a daily and thrice a week newspaper, entitled

THE CITY OF WASHINGTON GAZETTE.

Price, Daily, Ten Dollars per annum; and Thrice a Week, (viz. Monday, Wednesday and Friday) Five Dollars per annum: To be published every afternoon at TWO O'CLOCK.

Important public documents and state papers will be printed at full length; a competent reporter will be employed to furnish the proceedings of Congress for the Gazette; and all interesting articles of intelligence will be carefully selected and published.

PROSPECTUS.

The Editor of the WASHINGTON CITY WEEKLY GAZETTE, from the patronage he has already received, and the encouragement he is promised, intends, in October next, to publish a daily paper, and one three times a week. To the prosecution of this undertaking he has also been urged by other causes, perhaps equally powerful. When the extraordinary increase of population in the United States, and, of course, the augmented demand for information from the seat of government, are taken into consideration, and the fact, that, in the eastern section of the District of Columbia, embracing a population of near twenty thousand inhabitants, there is but one daily paper, the necessity and importance of an additional one must at once be obvious. Whatever may be the estimation in which Washington is held, as to mercantile transactions and information, by those at a distance, it must be allowed, by all who know it, to be the greatest focus of political intelligence in the U. States; and the first point from which must emanate all the information of the country in relation to our political transactions.—Much transpires that is lost for the want of a proper vehicle of communication, that would preserve its independence in reviewing the operations of the government; and many measures of importance are permitted to slumber amid the rubbish of legislative business, because they are not duly considered or properly displayed. In the hurry of, and perhaps, we might also say, the inattention sometimes paid to legislative affairs of the country, it often happens that measures of a dangerous political tendency, or, at least, of injurious consequences to the nation, are adopted with but little opposition, because those consequences have not been fully developed by the presses at the seat of government, and this cannot be done by a journal issuing seldomer than once a day or three times a week. The one already in existence at this place, however well conducted, is not sufficient for this purpose, because the press of political matter during the session is so great that one daily journal cannot embrace the whole, and much must therefore be lost.

In addition to this, it may be remarked, that, the columns of the National Intelligencer are devoted, almost exclusively to the proceedings and debates of the popular branch of the national legislature, whilst those of the senate are neglected, or forgotten. This exclusion of the transactions of so dignified and important a branch of our government, from the public eye, has long been a subject of regret and complaint to the people of this country, and, indeed, to the Senate itself. Some efforts have been made to gratify the nation, by a full display of the proceedings of this branch of the legislature, but those efforts have uniformly failed; and have failed, not from the want of proper encouragement and patronage, but from causes it is not necessary here to develope. From the nature of things, one press, alone, cannot give a full detail of the debates and proceedings of both houses of Congress. To one, therefore, an exclusive attention has, hitherto been paid, to the almost entire neglect of the other. The Editor will however, labor to obviate this inconvenience and remedy this evil, and endeavor to give the nation an accurate daily report of the proceedings of the national legislature, avoiding all partiality and preference of one branch to the other.

The political path he has hitherto pursued will evince his independence, and, he trusts, satisfy his patrons that no sacrifice of truth or political integrity shall ever be made at the shrine of party feeling. He will endeavor to render his journal as free from party bickering and animosity as possible, while, at the same time, the principles it inculcates shall be decidedly republican and patriotic.

As the humble guardian of the public weal, he will occasionally use the privilege he has a right to exercise, in expressing his temperate disapprobation of such measures of the government as he may think injurious to the interests of the country. If those opinions should sometimes be erroneous, he wishes them to be ascribed to the common fallibility of human judgment, which cannot be always in the right. As far as it may be possible, he will labor to be impartial; for what he can do, within his humble sphere, shall be done for the good of the country, and if he fails, he will console himself with the reflection that he has discharged his duty to the utmost of his ability and power. JONATHAN ELLIOT.

November 27

James Kennedy & Son,

BOOKSELLERS,

KING-STREET, ALEXANDRIA,

RESPECTFULLY inform the public that they have just received from

Lee's Medicine Store,

No. 46, Maiden lane, New-York a fresh supply of the following valuable MEDICINES:

Hamilton's Worm-destroying Lozenges,

Which have within sixteen years past cured an immense number of persons of both sexes of every age and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from WORMS, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent & is so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old should no worms exist in the body; but will without pain or griping cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

Description of Worms, and the symptoms by which they are known.

Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds viz.—The Teres or large round worm; the Ascarides or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitina or short flat white worm; and lastly, the Tænia or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious; purging with slimy and fœtid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; pains in the head and thighs and lowness of spirits; slow fever with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent "the vomiting and purging of children"—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

The Restorative Powder for the Teeth and Gums,

For the prevention and cure of BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended

HAHN's ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficatious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Hamilton's Elixir,

A sovereign remedy for colds, obstinate coughs, asthmas, sore throats, catarrhs, and approaching consumptions.—To parents who have children afflicted with the HOOPING COUGH, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorders to which children are liable. The Elixir is perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Hamilton's Grand Restorative,

Is recommended as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of

Nervous Disorders	Violent cramps in the stomach and back
Consumptions	Indigestion
Lowness of spirits	Melancholy
Loss of appetite	Gout in the stomach
Impurity of blood	Pains in the limbs
Hysteric affection	Relaxations, etc.
Inward weaknesses and debility

Hamilton's Essence and Extract of Mustard.

A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout, rheumatic gout, palsy, lumbago, numbness, white swellings, chilblains, sprains, bruises, pain in the face and neck, etc. etc.

Lee's Ointment for the Itch.

Warranted an infallible remedy at one application, may be used with perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the application of other remedies.

Hahn's true & genuine German Corn Plaister.

An infallible remedy for corns, speedily removing them root and branch, without giving any pain.

The Genuine Persian Lotion,

So celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals, the basis of other lotions, and of unparalleled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin, freckles, pimples, inflamatory redness, scurfs, tetters, ringworms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c.

Hahn's genuine Eye Water,

A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes, whether the effect of natural weakness or of accident.

Toothe Ache Drops.

The only remedy yet discovered which gives immediate and lasting relief in the most severe instances.

Lee's Infallible Ague and Fever Drops

For the cure of agues, remittent and intermittent fevers.

☞ At the place of sale pamphlets may be had gratis, describing cures performed by the above medicines; the number, importance and respectability of which, fully justify every article of this advertisement.
